IN presenting this, our first number of the DIRECTORY OF HAVERTHILL AND BRADFORD, we deem it unnecessary to give a lengthy preface, and will only say, much care and labor has been bestowed upon it. No pains or expense have been spared to make this little book both instructive and useful.

One difficulty that has been experienced in the preparation of the present Directory it is hoped will be remedied, as it easily can be, before the issue of another Directory; and that is, the numbering of the houses, which in hardly one street is complete, rendering it very hard to give the exact location.

Upon examination you will find there has been quite an increase in names, both in the general and in the business directory, showing that our villages are fast growing, and in a flourishing condition.

THE YEAR 1861

Constitutes the latter part of the 85th year of the Independence of the United States of America, and the 6574th of the Julian Period; and the 5621st according to the Jews, and the 5855th according to Usher, and the 7369th according to the Septuagint, since the creation of the world; the 2614th of Rome, according to Varro; and the beginning of the 1278th of the Hegira, the years of which are purely lunar.

ECLIPSES IN THE YEAR 1861.

There will be four Eclipses this year, three of the Sun and one of the Moon.

I. An Annular Eclipse of the Sun, Jan. 10. Invisible in America, Europe, Asia, and Africa; but it will be total and central in Australia.

This Eclipse begins, ..... Jan. 10th, 7h. 52m. A. M. in time
 And ends, ..... " 11th, 1h. 40m. 31s. J at Boston.

II. An Annular Eclipse of the Sun, July 7. Invisible in America, Europe, and Africa, but will be central and visible in the southern part of Asia, as follows:—

Beginning, ..... July 7th, 6h. 31m. A. M. Moon time
 And ending, ..... " 8th, 6h. 17m. M. J at Boston.

III. A Partial Eclipse of the Moon, Dec. 17, visible nearly North America, as follows:—

Moon enters the Penumbra, ... Dec. 17th, 1h. 1m. M. }	Moon
Moon enters the Shadow, .... " " 2h. 44m. M. }	time
Greatest Eclipse, ..... " " 3h. 25m. M. }	at
Moon leaves the Shadow, ..... " " 4h. 25m. M. }	Boston.
Moon leaves the Penumbra, ... " " 6h. 7m. M. }

But a small portion of the moon will be obscured, — about 2 digits.

IV. A Total Eclipse of the Sun, Dec. 31st, visible as a partial one in all North America, but will be total and central in South Africa.

At Boston it will be as follows:—

Eclipse begins on the Earth, ... Dec. 31st, 6h. 21m. M. }	Moon
Central Eclipse begins, ..... " " 7h. 24m. M. }	time
Centre Eclipse at noon, ..... " " 9h. 11m. M. }	at
Central Eclipse ends, ..... " " 10h. 3m. M. }	Boston.
Ends on the Earth, ..... " " 11h. 38m. M. }

But a small portion of the sun's southern limb will be obscured at Boston, — about two digits.

THE SEASONS.

Spring begins, .....	March 20th, 9h. 5m. Morn.
Summer " .....	June 21st, 5h. 46m. Morn.
Autumn " .....	Sept. 22d, 7h. 52m. Eve.
Winter " .....	Dec. 21st, 1m. 51m. Eve.

MORNING AND EVENING STARS. — Venus will be the Morning Star until May 15: it will then be the Evening Star to the close of the year. Mars will be the Morning Star to July 29; it will then be the Evening Star to August 28; after which it will be the Morning Star to the end of the year. Jupiter will be the Morning Star till Feb. 14; it will then be the Evening Star to August 30; after which it will be the Morning Star to the close of the year. Saturn will be the Morning Star till Feb. 28; it will then be the Evening Star to Sept. 9; it will then be the Morning Star to the close of the year.

EXPLANATION OF CHRONOLOGICAL CYCLES.*

I. Dominical Letter. — The seven days of the week reckoned as beginning on the first of January, are designated by the first seven letters of the alphabet, A, B, C, D, E, F, G; and the one of these which denotes Sunday is the Dominical letter. Thus, if the year begin on Sunday, A is the dominical letter; if it begin on Monday, that letter is B; if on Tuesday, it is C; and so on. If there were 361 days, or exactly 52 weeks in the year, the Dominical letter would be always the same; but the year contains 365 days; an excess of 4 days over the 52 weeks. The day is taken into the account every year, and the one-fourth makes a day in every four years; so that the dominical letter falls backward one letter for each of the three years in which the date or number of the year cannot be divided by 4, without remainder, and two letters every fourth year, when the date can be so divided. The years which have 29 days in February, and the two dominical letters are called Bi-sextiles, or leap years, because the day of the month, after February, leaps over a day of the week.

II. The Golden Number. — At the end of every nineteen years, the new and full moons happen at very nearly the same times of the year. The ancients discovered this, and reckoned the nineteen years, or “Cycle of the Moon,” as it is called, so that it terminated the year before the Christian era. This Cycle was marked by the Greeks with letters of Gold. To find the golden number, or number of the year in this Cycle, add 1 to the date; divide by 19: the quotient is the number of Cycles of the Moon since the birth of Christ, and the remainder is the golden number.

III. Solar Cycle. — The Cycle of the Sun is the number of years that elapse before the Sun lays throughout the year happen on the same days of the month. If there were 361 days in the year, that would happen every year; if 365, it would happen every seventh year; but because the one-fourth of a day makes an alteration of a day every fourth year, the Cycle must extend to 28 years. Nine years of this Cycle had elapsed before the birth of Christ. Therefore, to find the Cycle of the Sun, add 9 to the date; divide by 28; the quotient is the number of Cycles since the birth of Christ, and the remainder is the Cycle of the Sun.

IV. The Epact is the Moon’s age for the first day of January, or the equation between the beginning of the solar and the lunar year. The time from one new moon to another is about 29½ days. Thus, to come in a year, twelve revolutions of the moon and 11 days over; therefore the 12th new moon will take place 11 days earlier each year than it did the year before. In the lunar Cycle of 19 years, there are 12 new moons in each of 12, and 13 in each of 7; because the 11 days of yearly difference in three years exceed a lunar month by  $3\frac{1}{2}$  days. The following method will answer for the day of the moon's age on the 1st of January till the end of the present century: Take 1 from the golden number, multiply what is left by 11, divide by 30, the remainder is the age, or moon's age on the first of January.

V. Roman Indiction.—The Cycle of Indiction has no connection with the motions of the Sun and Moon further than its consisting of 15 years. It was established by the Emperor Constantine, in the year 312, to regulate certain payments by the subjects of the empire. To find it for any year, subtract 312 from the date, divide by 15, and the remainder is the indiction.

ON THE CALENDAR, AND ITS SUCCESSIVE REFORMS.

The divisions of time, such as they are presented in the Calendar, are composed of days, weeks, months, and years. The modes of determining these divisions have been various amongst the nations of antiquity, and there are still variations in these modes in the modern world.

The manner of reckoning the days by the ancient Jews, and which subsists amongst that people at the present time, is, to commence the day at a certain hour of the evening and to finish it on the next evening at the same hour. Thus, their sabbath begins on the afternoon of Friday, and is completed on the afternoon of Saturday. The Roman Catholic Church also commences its festivals in the evening, and this custom is retained by the Episcopalians in some of their popular observances, such as the eve of St. John, and Christmas eve.

The civil day now commences at 12 o'clock, midnight, and lasts till the same hour of the following night. The civil day is distinguished from the astronomical day, which begins at noon, and is counted up to 24 hours, terminating at the succeeding noon. This mode of reckoning the day is that used in the Nautical Almanac, and it sometimes leads to mistakes with persons not familiar with this manner of computation. A little consideration will obviate this difficulty. Thus, January 10, fifteen hours in astronomical time, is January 11; 3 in the morning, civil time. In France and in most of the States of Europe, as with us, the hours are counted up to 12, from midnight till noon, and from noon till midnight. In parts of Italy and of Germany, the day is held to commence about sunset, and the hours are counted on till the next sunset. This mode is very inconvenient to travellers: as the noon of the "Italian hours" at the summer Solstice is 16 o'clock, and 19 o'clock at the winter Solstice.

The English names of the days of the week are derived from the Saxons; and they partly adopted those names from the more civilized nations of antiquity. The following ingenious origin of the ancient names has been suggested in connection with astronomical science. The planetary arrangement of Ptolemy was thus: 1, Saturn; 2, Jupiter; 3, Mars; 4, the Sun; 5, Venus; 6, Mercury; 7, the Moon; each of these planets was supposed to preside successively, over each hour of the 24 of each day, in the order above given. In this way Saturn would preside over the first hour of the first day; Jupiter over the second hour;

Mars over the third; the Sun over the fourth, and so on. Thus the sun, presiding over the 4th, 11th, and 18th hours of the first day, would preside over the first hour of the second day; and carrying on the series, the Moon would preside over the first hour of the third day; Mars over the first hour of the fourth day; Mercury over the first hour of the fifth day; Jupiter over the first hour of the sixth day; and Venus over the first hour of the seventh day. Hence, the names of the days yet used in the learned professions throughout Europe. The present English names are derived from the Saxon:—

Latin.	English.	Saxon.
Dies Saturni,	Saturday,	Seternes's day.
Dies Solis,	Sunday,	Sun's day.
Dies Lune,	Monday,	Moon's day.
Dies Martis,	Tuesday,	Tiw's day.
Dies Mercurii,	Wednesday,	Woden's day.
Dies Jovis,	Thursday,	Thor's day.
Dies Veneris,	Friday,	Friga's day.

Tiw, Woden, Thor, and Friga, were deities of the Pagan Saxons. Thor was the god of thunder, as well as the ancient Jove; and Friga was a goddess, the wife of Woden.

Almost all nations have regulated their MONTHS, in great degree, by the revolution of the Moon. Some have endeavored to unite this division with the annual course of the Sun, by an augmentation of days at the end of each year, or by adding a thirteenth month at the end of every third year. The Jews and the Athenians followed this latter method. The Macedonians, and some nations of Asia assigned their months 30 and 31 days. The Turks and the Arabs have 29 and 30 days. The months of the Anglo-Saxons were governed by the revolutions of the Moon. Their common year consisted of twelve lunar months, three months being appropriated to each of the four seasons; but every third year contained an additional lunar month, which was given to the summer season. The names of their lunar months either had reference to their religious ceremonies, or to the natural appearances of the year.

A considerable variation prevailed generally amongst the nations of antiquity, and still partially prevails, with regard to the commencement of the YEAR. The Jews dated the beginning of the sacred year in the month of March; the Athenians, in the month of June; the Macedonians, on the 24th of September; the Christians of Egypt and Ethiopia, on the 29th or 30th of August; and the Persians and Armenians, on the 11th of August. The Jewish civil year begins on the first day of the month Tisri; the Mahomedan begins on the first of the month Moharrem. Nearly all the nations of the Christian world now commence the year on the first of January; but as recently as 1752, even in England, the year did not legally and generally commence till the 25th of March. In Scotland, at that period, the year began on the 1st of January. This difference caused great practical inconveniences, and January and February, and part of March, sometimes bore two dates, as we often find in old records, as 1711-12. This practice often leads to chronological mistakes.

The year, properly so called, is the solar year, or the period of time in which the Sun passes through the twelve signs of the Zodiac. This period comprises 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes, 51 seconds, 6 decimals, and is called the astronomical year.

The Calendar is a table of the days of the year arranged to assist the distribution of time, and to indicate remarkable days connected with devotion or business. If every nation had adopted the same divisions of time, and a uniform Calendar had been general throughout civilized states, history would present much fewer difficulties and contractions. The progress of astronomical science has necessarily produced great changes in the manner of dividing time; and thus, whilst some nations have been ready to give their Calendar every possible advantage of a scientific construction, the prejudice of others have rendered them unwilling to depart from their accustomed mode, however inaccurate. It may be curious and interesting to trace, very briefly, the changes of the Calendar; or, more properly called the changes of style.

The Romans called the first days of each month Calends, from a word which signified called; because the pontiffs on those days called the people together, to apprise them of the days of festival in that month. Hence we derive the name of CALENDAR.

The Roman Calendar, which has in great part been adopted by almost all nations, is stated to have been introduced by Romulus, the Founder of the city. He divided the year into ten months only; Mars, Aprilis, Maius, Junius, Quintilis (afterwards called Julius), Sextilis (afterwards called Augustus), September, October, November, December. Mars, Maius, Quintilis, and October, contained 31 days each; and each of the six other months, 30 days; so that the ten months comprised 304 days. The year of Romulus was, therefore, of 50 days' less duration than the lunar year; and of 61 days' less than the solar year; and its commencement of course did not correspond with any fixed season. Numa Pompilius corrected this Calendar, by adding two months—January and February—which he placed before Mars. Julius Caesar, being desirous to render the Calendar still more correct, consulted the astronomers of his time, who fixed the solar year as 365 days, 6 hours, comprising, as they thought, the period from one vernal equinox to another. The six hours were set aside, and at the end of four years, forming a day, the fourth year was made to consist of 366 days. The day thus added was called intercalary, and was added to the month of February, by doubling the 24th of that month, or, according to their way of reckoning, the sixth of the Calends of March. Hence the year was called Bissextile. This almost perfect arrangement, which was denominated the Julian style, prevailed generally through the Christian world till the time of Pope Gregory XIII. The Calendar of Julius Caesar was defective in this particular; that the solar year, consisting of 365 days, 5 hours, and 49 minutes, and not of 365 days, 6 hours, as was supposed in the time of Julius Caesar, there was a difference between the apparent year and the real year of eleven minutes. This difference, at the time of Gregory XIII., had amounted to ten entire days, the vernal equinox falling on the 11th instead of the 21st of March, at which period it fell correctly at the time of the council of Nice, in the year 325. To obviate this inconvenience, Gregory obtained, in 1582, that the 10th of October should be counted instead of the 5th, for the future; and, to prevent the recurrence of this error, it was further determined that the year beginning a century should not be Bissextile, with the exception of that beginning each fourth century. Thus, 1700 and 1800 have not been Bissextile, nor will 1900 be so; but the year 2000 will be Bissextile. In this manner three days are retaken in four hundred years, because the space of eleven minutes makes three days in about that period. The year of the Calendar is thus made to correspond, as nearly as possible, to the true solar year; and future errors of Chronology are avoided.

The adoption of this change, which is called the Gregorian, or New Style (the Julian being called the Old Style), was for some time resisted by states not under the authority of the See of Rome. The change of the style in England was established by an Act of Parliament, passed in 1752. It was then enacted that the year should commence on the 1st of January, instead of March 25th; and that in the year 1752, the days should be numbered as usual until September 2, when the day following should be accounted the 14th September, omitting eleven days. The Gregorian principle of dropping one day in every hundredth year, except the fourth hundredth, was also enacted. The alteration was for a long time opposed by the prejudices of individuals; and even now, in England, with some persons, the Old Style is so pertinaciously adhered to, that rents are made payable on the old quarter days instead of the new. The Russians still retain the Old Style, thus creating an inconvenience in their public and commercial intercourse with other nations, which we trust that the growing intelligence of the people will eventually correct.

During the period in which France was a Republic, the authorities introduced an entire change in the Calendar, which was in existence more than twelve years, and is important to be noticed, as all the public Acts of the French nation were dated according to this altered style. The National convention, by a decree of October 5th, 1793, established a new era, which was called, in the place of the Christian era, the era of the French. The commencement of each year, on the first "Vendémiaire," was fixed at the midnight commencing the day on which the autumnal equinox fell, as determined at the Observatory of Paris. This era commenced the 22nd September, 1792, being the epoch of the foundation of the Republic; but its establishment was not decreed till the 14th "Frimaire" of the year II. (24th November, 1792.) Two days afterwards, the public acts were thus dated. This Calendar existed till the 10th "Nivose" year XIV. (the 31st December, 1805), when the Gregorian mode of computation was restored.

HISTORICAL.

THE scraps of local history inserted in the Directory of 1859, met with universal favor, and added largely to the interest and value of the book; and believing that something of the kind would be appropriate in this place, we asked and obtained the consent of Mr. G. W. Chase, to make a selection from the MSS. of his forthcoming "History of Haverhill." In examining the sheets, we found so much of deepest local interest, that we hardly knew how and what to select, and finally decided to insert part of a single chapter, which will, we think, be found well worth perusal, and also affords a fair specimen of that portion of the work already completed.

"In examining the records of our town for the past two hundred years, one cannot fail to note the great changes that have taken place in that time. Habits, customs, laws and languages have all yielded, in a greater or less degree, to the power of progress. A striking illustration of this fact is seen in the history of our common schools.

For several years previous to 1670, (viz : from 1661) a schoolmaster had been employed to keep a school in the town, but the records, up to this time, give us no hints in addition to that simple fact, except that he was paid £10 per annum by the town for such service. But in the records of the annual meeting of 1670, we find the following, which throws much additional light upon the matter:—"It is ordered by a major or free vote of the inhabitants, that the selectmen shall agree with a schoolmaster for the keeping of a school in the town of Haverhill, who shall allow him ten pounds annually, to be rated upon the inhabitants proportionable to their estates, according to the way of making Mr. Ward's rates; and what children do come to him to be taught—the selectmen being to provide a convenient place to keep the school in—shall pay to the schoolmaster, according as he and the parents or masters of such as come to be taught can agree for, provided that he do not ask for a child or person more than is usually given in other towns by the year."

From the above, we learn that the £10 paid by the town, was in addition to the amount received by the schoolmaster from the parents of his pupils. As to the latter sum, we can find no account or hint in the records. Previously to this time, the school had been kept in some private house, but the number of the scholars had now become so large, it was considered necessary that a building should be erected expressly for the purpose, and at the same meeting the following vote was passed :

“ Voted, That forthwith there shall be a house erected and built as near the meeting house, that now is, as may be, which may be convenient for the keeping of a public school in, and for the service of a watch house, and for the entertainment of such persons on the sabbath days at noon, as shall desire to repair thither, and shall not repair between the forenoon and afternoon exercises to their own dwellings ; which house is to be erected upon that which is now the town's common land or reserved for public use.” The town also voted that in case the contributions voluntarily offered were not sufficient to erect the school house, that they should be laid aside, and the whole charge be paid by a public rate (tax) upon the inhabitants. The charge of the work was left to William White, Peter Ayers, and Nathaniel Saltonstall.

Thomas Wasse was chosen to keep the school the coming year.*

Our ancestors must have been early risers, as we notice that their town meetings often commenced at 7 o'clock, A. M., and were never adjourned to a later hour than 8 A. M.

If any suppose that “talking” in our town meetings has increased in these latter days, we would remind them that as early as the time of which we now write, it frequently took three days to transact the business at the annual meetings, notwithstanding they commenced at such an early hour as above mentioned. The time occupied, and the small number of votes usually passed, clearly indicate that our early townsmen were not at all deficient in the "gift of gab."

About this time the town resolved that no vote should be valid that was passed after sunset,—an excellent regulation.

From the fact that a committee was chosen to find, if they could, one of the highways which had been previously laid out by the town, we judge that such laying out was not so thoroughly done as it is at present. It may also be mentioned in this place, as a suggestive fact, that no record is made of any work whatever done to highways, except two or three bridges, until long after the period of which we write. Their best and only highways were merely paths or tracks, ungraded and bridgeless, except here and there a rude bridge across the larger streams.

From the record of the same meeting we make the following extract:— "Robert Emerson, Ephraim Davis, and John Heath, Jun., desiring to take the oath of fidelity to this colony, it was administered to them by N. Saltonstall, Commissioner."

At this time, no one was allowed to vote in the nomination of magistrates, and choice of delegates, (Representatives) unless he had taken the "freeman's oath," or "oath of fidelity." A man might be a freeholder and not a freeman and vice versa. He might be a voter in town affairs, and yet neither be a freeholder nor a freeman. A freeman was one who had taken the freeman's oath.* A freeholder was one who, either by grant, purchase, or inheritance, was entitled to a share in all the common and undivided lands. When any town officers were to be chosen, or money raised by way of rate, all the inhabitants could vote; but when a magistrate was to be nominated, or Deputy to General Court chosen, only freemen were allowed that privilege.

One of the noticeable peculiarities of the town records about this time, is, that the Recorder gives the names of those who "dissented" from any vote passed by the town. It is somewhat remarkable that but very few names are thus recorded, especially when we consider that so much time was spent in discussions, and that nearly all town matters, large and small, were acted upon directly by the inhabitants in town meeting assembled.

The town was yet in want of more grain mill accommodations, and as those to whom had been granted the exclusive privilege of erecting such mills in town, seemed for some reason, to be unable or disinclined to supply them, it was voted, (March 7, 1771,) "that John Haseltine, or any other man, have free liberty to build a mill to grind corn in the town of Haverhill, either upon the

Upon the files of the Hampton Court for this year, (1692) we find the following curious order of court.

“ At a Courte holden at Hampton, 8th of 8th mo. This Courte being informed that John Littlehale, of Haverhill, liveth in an house by himself contrary to the law of the Country, whereby hee is subject to much sin ; and having had information of some of his accounts which are in no way to be allow'd, of but disproved and discountenanced, doe therefore order that the said John doe forthwith, at farthest, within the time of six weeks next after the date hereof, remove himself from the said place and solitary life and settle himself in some orderly family in the said towne and bee subject to the orderly rules of family government in said family (unless hee remove out of the said towne within the time) and if he doe not perform this order as abovesaid then this Courte doth order that the Selectmen doe forthwith order and place the said John to bee in some orderly family as abovesaid, which if he shall refuse to submit unto, then these are in his majesties name to require the Constable of said town upon his knowledge of it, or information, to apprehend the person of said John and carry him to the house of correction in Hampton, there to bee kept and sett to work until hee shall be freed by order of authority ; and this order shall bee a discharge and security."

This order had the desired effect. John immediately removed to "some orderly family." If, however, the order was intended as a hint that he ought to take to himself a wife, John was not over hasty in taking the hint, as he did not give up a "jolly bachelor's life" until forty-four years afterward, when he had attained the respectable age of sixty-six years. He then married, and became the father of two children.

From the Hampton records we learn, that on the 24th of September, of this year, "There was a storme of raine and snow so that the ground was covered with snow, and some of it continued until the 26th."

It is well authenticated, that at one time it was nowise uncommon to stipulate in indentures of apprentices, that they should not eat salmon oftener than six times a week !

In the New Hampshire Gazette, for May 13, 1760, we find the following item :

"SHAD.—One day last week was drawn by a net at one draft, Two Thousand Five Hundred and odd Shad Fish out of the River Merrimack, near Bedford in this Province. Thought remarkable by some people."

In these days, when fish is reckoned a remarkably large "haul," even with our double seines, of twenty rods length, the above number seems almost incredible.

As proof that the early inhabitants of the town were "subject to frailty and error," we cite the following from the records of the County Court :

"Nathaniel Emerson was admonished by the Court for being in company with Peter Cross and others, at Jonas Gregory's, and drinking of stolen wine."*

"Robert Swan was fined 20 s. for being drunk and cursing."†

"Two daughters of Hanniel Bosworth were fined 10 s. each, for wearing silk.‡ This was contrary to the law for persons in their station in life. "Bravery in dress" was strictly forbidden.

Originally Bradford was a part of Rowley, and called the Merrimack Lands from 1649, when they first began to occupy this part, until 1675, and the old town of Bradford included Groveland until 1850, when it was divided near the line which separated the two parishes.

The first church was formed in 1682, and the meeting-house built where the old cemetery now is, in which the town worshipped until 1728, when a church was formed in the east part of the town, and when they built their second meeting-house it was located on the north-easterly part of what is now inclosed in the common.

SYLVESTER CHASE,

Undertaker,

HARRISON ST.,*HAVERHILL, MASS.

Having provided himself with a new Hearse, is prepared to attend to all orders in town or out of town. He has constantly on hand,

Ready Made Coffins, Metallic Burial Cases, & Caskets, of all descriptions. Also, COFFIN PLATES, COLORED SHROUDS, for men; together with a large assortment of Shrouds, made from white materials, of all qualities, sizes and prices, for men, women and children, which will be furnished as low as by any one else. He will also attend to the laying out, &c., of deceased persons at all times, and is prepared with Ice Chests, &c., for preserving corpses.

☞ CARRIAGES furnished for funeral occasions at the lowest rates.

S. CHASE'S AIR-TIGHT PRESERVER.

Many efforts have been made to preserve the form and features of a departed friend without the usual mode, so repugnant to the feelings, of placing the body in ice. This difficulty has been overcome by a PATENT AIR-TIGHT PRESERVER, in which cold air is the medium used, acting as a preserver in the warmest weather, for any length of time. At the same time it checks the nocturnal depredation, while a glass reveals at any moment the features of the departed. Thus arranged it can be conveyed hundreds of miles with perfect safety, and in a good state of preservation—which has already been done.
